of the requirements of the 25 per cent rule. The total sales of stocks on 'Change at New York Saturday were only 53,613 shares. The market was irregular and unsettled on a very small volume of business, but became fairly steady toward the close. The good showing made by St. Paul in its annual report induced buying by London and the local traders which resulted in an advance of % per cent., of which only 1/8 was lost at the close, Burlington advanced % at the opening, receded & recovered the loss and reacted & closing unchanged on the day. Rock Island gained 1/8 and then, on rumors of a probable reduction in the dividend rate, declined 1/2, closing 1/4 above the lowest point touched. Sugar was most active of the list, but the sales reached only 8,600 shares. It ranged in prices from 105% to 104%, closing % above the bottom figure, scoring a loss of % per cent., compared with the final sale of Friday. The trading in the rest of the list was so light as to be almost devold of interest altogether. On sales of one hundred shares each, Michigan Central declined 1% per cent., Louisville & New Albany preferred 24 per cent. and Minneapolis & St. Paul preferred 14. Advances were established in Wheeling & Lake Erie preferred and 1 per cent. in American Tobacco. The other changes were in fractions and pretty evenly divided between declines and advances. General Electric and Western Union are unchanged on the day. On the week the speculation has been erratic in its course, but ther have been no violent changes in the active list; the tenden y has been downward, but the losses at the close of the week are not very heavy, some few of these shares showing a slight advance.  WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

Henry Clews, of New York, in his financiai circular, says of operations in Wall street last week:

'As indicated in our last advices, the slight reaction in prices of stocks in the last week of August has been followed during the past week by a general recovery of tone and an advance in quotations. This is evidence that the market has not lost the confidence inspired by the settlement of the tariff and the consequent general revival of business. The improved tone in merchandise markets and the presence in the leading markets of buyers of goods representing all parts of the country finds a ready response in Wall street; the more so as the railroads already show the effects of the revival in an increase of earn-

The general outlook is interpreted as favoring a continuance of the present symptoms of recovery. Everywhere there is a scarcity of goods, and the current unprecedentedly low scale of prices encourages buying. After twelve months contrac-tion of purchases, alike by traders and con-sumers, a considerable replenishment of supplies seems inevitable. The buying may be conservative and consumption may pos-sibly run largely upon the lower grades of goods, but, in any case, the machinery of business has now received a new impetus, and there is no reason why it should not steadily recover its accustomed movement. It may be that the recovery in the industries-or in some of them-will somewhat lag behind the movement in commercial operations, for there is reason to fear that manufacturers are contending against the difficulty of an excess of plant, and for that reason they may find ground for complaint until their capacity for production becomes better adjusted to the demand for products. To reach that adjustment there must be on the one side an increase in the buying ability of consumers, and, on the other, the permanent disuse of plant which has failed to keep pace with the march of economy in production. For these and other reasons we may not be warranted in expecting any immediate boom in trade; but we may legitimately anticipate the wholesome process of recovery that comes from a revision of the conditions of production and distribution. Such a revision is calculated to encourage confidence in investments; and if it fails to induce expansion in industrial outlays, it to the same seems to favor a steady rise in the value of railroad securities. From causes con-

DULL DAY'S TRADING indeed, is rather towards the consolidation of the several separate capitals of important trades into a single great monopoly for controlling the effects of excessive production and consequent competition. This, for the moment, at least, directly tends to difrom industrial uses and forces it into other forms of investment. Railroads are the more calculated to attract this diverted capital, because they are becoming less and less exposed to competition from the creation of new companies and the construction of new line. Experience is improving their methods of operation; public opinion is forcing upon them greater integrity of management; the current wholesale reorganization of large companies is not only weeding out the weak spots in their finances, but also exhibiting the necessity for more conservative capitalization and a stricter accountability of managers; while the decline in the cost of supplies and in wages is conducive to greater economy of operation. These facts should make railroad stocks and bonds more acceptable to those who, for the time being, find some other forms of corporate investment surrounded by doubts arising from unsettled industrial conditions. For this reason we expect to find the values of railroad securities steadily sustained by a growing in-The New York weekly bank statement | vestment demand, and regard them as good purchase whether on speculation or for permanent holding. "The gross earnings of railroads continue to make increasingly favorable comparisons with this period of last year, when the depression of business had not produced its full effect upon transportation, and The banks now hold $61,944,275 in excess fair. For the four weeks of June some seventy-five to eighty lines showed a decline, averaging about 20 per cent., from 1893; and, owing to the Debs strike, the decrease for the first week of July was over 32 per cent. From that date to the third week of July the decline diminished to 12.40 per cent., showing the effect of the breaking up of the strike; and for the last week of that month the decrease was less than 2 per cent. August opened with a merely fractional falling off, and the third week of that month showed an increase over last year of 31/2 per cent. It is to be noted, however, that August of 1893 showed a decline of 13 per cent. as compared with 1892, but the traffic of that month two years ago was large beyond all precedent. Under all the circumstances, therefore, the current drift of earnings must be regarded as assuring.' Saturday's Bank Clearings. ST. LOUIS, Sept. 8.—Clearings, $3,847,729; this week, $21,845,077; last week, $16,665,835; corrsponding week last year, $17,918,540. LOCAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Trade of the Week an Improvement

Over Several Weeks Past. In most lines merchants speak of trade in the week closing Sept. 8 as having been an improvement over either of several preceding weeks. Fluctuations in values have been fewer and a better feeling all round prevails. The week closes with eggs, poultry and butter all weak and lower prices indicated. In the vegetable line receipts are not so large and commission men are getting some better prices. Choice peaches and apples have been on the market the last few days and brought very fair prices, still not so good as at the corresponding period last year. Grocers had a good business all week, sugars firm and advancing and coffees easier. Dry-goods houses and millinery establishments had more business last week than in any week of the last three months, and the boot and shoe houses have been busier the last few days. In the local grain market it was an off week. Attendance on 'Change was not so large as for some time previous and the bidding tame. The week closes with track bids ruling as on Friday, except on wheat, which declines 4c, track bids ranging as Wheat-No. 2 red, 49%c; No. 3 red, 44%c;

KANSAS AND ITS TOWNS.

No Large Cities, but 103 Are Distributed Through the State.

Kansas City Star. Kansas has 103 cities with a population in excess of 1,000, seven cities which have more than 10,000 people and four which exceed the 20,000 mark. The largest town in the State-Kansas City-has 42,646. Topeka has 30,724, Wichita 21,619 and Leavenworth 20,466. There are no great cities in Kansas. It has a big urban population, but instead of being centralized in a few points it is scattered throughout a large number of towns and cities. There is a village in almost every railroad crossing in Kansas. This distribution is incident to the economic conditions which prevail in that S'ate, and follows out a natural law. The chief industry in Kansas is agriculture. This makes a multiplicity of smaller towns a necessity. They serve as trading and shipping points, and are a prime convenience to the farmer. This distribution of the people is conducive to their material and moral welfare. In the country towns of Kansas vice is reduced to the minimum, and there is a very small percentage of poverty. It is in the great centers of population that pauperism and crime find their favorite haunts. This rule holds good, in a modified sense, even in Kansas. It is in the larger cities of the State that violations of the law are most frequent. The history of prohibition has proved this in a conspicuous manner. While the experiment of wiping out the liquor traffic by legislation has proved a success, practically speaking, in a great majority of the towns in Kansas, there has been a constant disposition in the larger places to violate the law secretly or openly and to defy its restrictions. But the preponderance of friendly sentiment toward it in the moral districts has upheld the policy of prohibition in Kansas, and has maintained it by the force of circumstances and conditions which are peculiar to that State. It is obvious that the character of the Kansas people has been largely influenced by the distribution of its population. Every town in the State, however small, is a sort of an intellectual center. It has its school, in many instances a library, and always places where books and papers can be purchased by the farmers. In no other State do the people learn so much by attrition as they do in Kansas. They are brought into close contact and thus they absorb knowledge from each other. This intimate assoclation, which is unknown in the large cities, develops the social instinct and exerts a wholesome influence in the progress of character building. Thus the average Kansan reveals a hearty personality, with a keen human interest in things about him and shrewd knowledge of men and every-

WHEAT HELD UP BY GOOD BULL NEWS INDUSTRIOUSLY HANDLED.

Corn Gained 3-Se at the Close, Oats Advanced and Provisions Were Firm and at Better Prices.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 .- The Board of Trade markets to-day were dull, but firm. Wheat was sustained by the talk of that grain for feed, and corn advanced on the expectation of a bullish government crop report. December wheat closed 1/3c higher, September corn %c higher and September oats 4c higher. Provisions finished with modest ad-

The wheat market opened firm. Foreign markets were rather easier and receipts here and in the Northwest continued to show a tendency toward diminishing. Chicago received 244 cars. Minneapolis reported 382 and Duluth 176, or 558 in all, compared with 615 at both places a year ago. Bradstreet made the clearances of wheat and flour for the week 3,207,000 bu, against 3,-420,000 bu the week before. The clearances from the Atlantic ports for twenty-four hours amounted to 480,000 bu. The total of the primary market :eccipts were still in the aggregate, close to the one million bushel mark. Business was very light. The sustaining influences were the indications given by the light Northwestern receipts of a much lighter crop of spring wheat than many had calculated on, and of the confirmation coming to hand of the increasing use of winter wheat for feed. The opening prices of December was 57c, it advanced from that to 57% @57% and closed at 574c. Attention was drawn to the fact of the shipments of wheat at Chicago, Duluth and Toledo exceeding the receipts to-

The corn market was very ragged and irregular, but with an upward tendency for the most part and an improvement established at the close of about 1/2c per bu. The effect of the Russian barley importations had apparently exhausted itself, and it was altogether discredited in some quarters. There was a healthy demand for the speculative offerings of corn here in view of the expectation of the government crop re-port, which will be issued on Monday, showing a further heavy deterioration in the condition since a month ago. September, which closed yesterday at 56%c, opened at from 561/2c to 56%c, advanced to 571/2c and closed at 57c bld. May started at 54%@55c, advanced to 55%c, reacted to 55%c and closed at 55%c. Receipts here to-day were 367 cars, and there were 347,000 inspected

Business in the oats market was fairly active. There was a fair disposition to trade both ways, but sales were mostly scattered and local. Fluctuations were again influenced by corn. September ranged from 29% to 30% and ended at 30% bid. Provisions were strong on a moderate business. The revival of the bullish spirit of the grain markets helped prices somewhat, and hog reciepts, present and pros-pective, were light. The day's run was good, and for all next week 100,000 are the estimated arrivals. Compared with yesterday's closing prices for January delivery, the following advances occurred: Pork 5c, lard .071/2c and ribs .05c.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Cattle—Receipts were estimated at 1,000 head, making 72,551 for this week, against 67,959 for last week. 65,824 a year ago and 84,736 two years ago. This week's receipts are the largest of the year by far, and as nearly everybody had their orders filled, the thousand head here to-day was as many as was needed. Trade was slow and prices nominally steady. The supply consisted of about 500 natives and 500 Texas cattle.

The demand for hogs was reasonably active and prices active, and prices were strong for good to best grades. Nobody seemed to want the poorer kinds, and holders of such had to make concessions in order to unload. Few prime lots were included in the offerings and, while that sort is salable at $6.55@6.60, the major part sold below $6.35. The sheep and lamb markets were firm at $1@3.50 and $1.75@4,25, resepctively. The receipts were about 1,500 head, and for this week 52,300, against 52,352 last week and 64,549 for the corresponding week last year. Receipts-Cattle, 1,000; calves, 300; hogs,

The Spanish Pretender, Wishes to Return to Paris.

Don Carlos is once more before the public, this time as an applicant to the French republic for permission to spend a few days in Paris, where his newly wedded wife, nee Princess de Rohan, wishes to do a little shopping. The Pretender only asks for a week, and pledges himself to do nothing calculated in any way to offend either the French government or to create diffi-culties between it and the Spanish authorities. Don Carlos was expelled by the French police seven years ago, and was forbidden to return in consequence of his having made use of the hospitality accorded to him by the French government to create trouble with Spain. His exile from France differs therefore from that decreed against the Duke of Orleans and his father and against Prince Victor Napoleon, for whereas these three were banished as pretenders to the French throne, Don Carlos is simply denied admission to French territory in deference to Spain's susceptibilities. It is possible that his request may be accorded by President Casimir-Perrier, although the latter has regarded the application of sufficient import-ance to submit it to the consideration of his council of Ministers and to query the Spanish government before venturing to Should Don Carlos and his wife, the Duchess of Madrid, receive the assent of the authorities to their coming I venture to doubt whether they will stay with the Princess Benjamin Rohan at her mansion in the Rue des Bassins, for the Princess in question, far from being young and charming, is the elderly widow either of a patent-medicine manufacturer or of an artificial manure man. I forgot which, who married the disreptable Prince Benjamin merely for the sake of his name and title, in return for which she makes him an allowance of $10,000 a year. Prince Benjamin is in every sense of the word the black sheep of the Rohan family. At Vienna he used to be known by the name of "Baby Rohan," although big, fat and burly. His follies were of such a character that the Austrian capital became too hot to hold him, and this led to his being disowned by the head of his house. He came to this country hoping to make a wealthy marriage, but met with hard luck and finally wound up as a restaurant waiter in New York, where he subsisted during the latter part of his sojourn on the earnings of a fellow-knight of the napkin who had been born as a peasant on the grand old Rohan estates of Sichrow, in Bohemia, and, therefore, considered it a privilege to be permitted to act as a henchman to a member of his signeurial family.
